Feeding On The Depths:

Nourishing Your Congregation On Fillet of Soul

We struggle in church not so much to feel our spiritual hunger as to feed it. Traditional metaphors, still the regular diet of most gathered believers, have in the past generation lost much nourishing power. Images of kingdom, crown, and throne, while tasting great for some, are less filling for many. Give us, instead, more language with fiber and nutrients for the inner journey. Enter Carl Jung with a thought-frame and imagery that could be called the bread and wine of inwardness. Workshop participants will explore options for vital language in worship, preaching, and teaching that not only resonate with Jung, but more importantly, reframe the Gospel as food for the soul.

The Rev. Don M. Wardlaw, PhD. is J.G.K. McClure Professor Emeritus of Preaching and Worship, McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago. A native of Little Rock, with bachelor's degree from Columbia University, M.Div. from Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, and Ph.D. in New Testament from The University of Aberdeen, Aberdeen, Scotland, Dr. Wardlaw, served two pastorates in Presbyterian churches in the Memphis area, then taught preaching and worship at Columbia Seminary for 10 years, rounding out his formal career with teaching preaching and worship for 21 years at McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago. During his last ten years in Chicago, he founded and directed the Association of Chicago Theological Schools' D. Min. in Preaching Program jointly sponsored by six Chicago seminaries. He has taught as guest professor at Princeton Seminary, Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, and Yale Divinity School. Don has led preaching seminars throughout the U.S., Canada, New Zealand, and Sweden.

In the early 1990's, Don became deeply interested in the work of C. G. Jung and began to formulate a Jungian oriented homiletic. He is presently working on a book, "Preaching From Within."

“Feeding On The Depths: Nourishing Your Congregation On Fillet of Soul” is a separate, but related, pre-conference event to the Journey Conference, Moving Toward Wholeness (October 15-18, 2009), at which Dr. Wardlaw will also give a workshop entitled: "Spelunking The Shadow: Discovering Power Alongside Fear.....in the Dark."

Participants in the “Feeding On The Depths: Nourishing Your Congregation On Fillet of Soul” workshop qualify for a discount to the other (and consecutive) pre-conference event, the now famous "Language of the Soul" Seminar, led by retired Presbyterian Minister, Dr. John L. Martin, D. Min. and his wife Carolyn, DCE retired. This "Language of the Soul" seminar, which has evolved over decades, is known as one of the very best brief in-depth introductions to the work of Carl Jung. Its purpose is to familiarize participants with the basic concepts of Jungian Psychology in order to allow them to begin to appropriate Jung's ground-breaking discoveries for their personal lives and their work with others.
